

Statement of Principles
(Updated January 2025)

Alliance to End Hunger believes...

1. Ending hunger requires a strong public commitment and greater leadership from the U.S. government;
2. Ending hunger is the shared responsibility of individuals, the private sector, communities, faith-based organizations, civil society and government;
3. Ending hunger means prioritizing nutrition programs for vulnerable people, including but not limited to children, women, elderly, displaced and disabled;
4. Ending hunger means providing opportunity for people to lift themselves out of poverty;
5. Ending hunger means ending market distortions that stifle economic growth, particularly in agriculture, and entering into agreements that expand trade, along with capacity building that lifts people out of poverty and supports market-led economic growth;
6. Ending hunger includes broad efforts to secure peace and prosperity in areas where people are struggling.

Enacting these principles will lead to...

Ending hunger in the United States within a decade; and Ending hunger worldwide within a generation.
